

NATIONAL ENFORCEMENT OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ORDERS

THE NATIONAL DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ORDER SCHEME
HAS BEEN INTRODUCED:

WE CAN NOW BETTER PROTECT AUSTRALIANS

- Victims are now protected, no matter where their domestic violence order was issued.
- Police and courts are better able to protect and empower victims of domestic violence.
- Perpetrators will be held to account for offences and breaches nationwide.
- DVOs issued prior to 25 November 2017 can become nationally recognised by applying to any court in Australia.

New laws have been introduced nationwide. We are removing state and territory borders to better protect Australians.
