

MARS 2094

A GENDER EQUAL WORLD

With Australia's space mission control centre calling Adelaide home, it makes us think... what if the mission to land on Mars and create a government and social system was led by a woman? Would the new society look different to the current societies on Earth, which have been predominantly shaped by men?

In 2019 we are celebrating 125 years since women in South Australia won the right to vote, it was a long and hard fought battle. Join the Office for Women at our panel event, discussing:

'What would gender equality look like if Mars was settled in 2094, 200 years after the vote was achieved for women in South Australia?'

Panellists

- Dr Kristin Alford, Museum of Discovery, UniSA
- Wing Commander Marija Jovanovich
- Lucy McEwen, Women in Resources
- Shona Reid, Reconciliation SA

Wednesday 13 March 2019
5pm to 7pm

Science Exchange
Exchange Place, Adelaide

Tickets $30
Book online by 5 March

Government of South Australia
Office for Women

125
Their triumph
our motivation

